About Rodebjer

Rodebjer was founded in New York in 1999 by native Swede Carin Rodebjer. After being spotted on the streets of Manhattan wearing her handmade designs, Carin Rodebjer started selling her clothes to friends and to stores in New York and Stockholm. Today, Rodebjer is available in over 20 countries.

Rodebjer's quest is to enhance personalities by simplifying everyday clothing decisions through relevant, timeless and versatile fashion that meet the many needs of the modern woman. Signature silhouettes include slouchy suits and sets, drapery caftans and easy-to-wear dresses and kimonos—clothes that easily moves from day into night and from work to leisure. Rodebjer is strongly inspired by the human rights and feminist movements, and by individuals with the courage to live by their own rules. Carin Rodebjer has won several awards and her clothes continuously receive positive reviews from the international fashion community.
